Combination Windows

Functional in their essence, combination aluminium, wood, or uPVC windows are a blend of sliding, casement, and fixed windows. They are either a blend of the same type or different types of windows. Alternatively, they can be custom-made to fit individual preferences.

Arched Windows

Arch-shaped windows are rectangular at the bottom and semi-circular at the top. Adding an aesthetic appeal to the overall look of the room, these round-top windows come in two styles they can be fixed or can be opened to let the air in.

Bay Windows

Perfect for the small protruding space in bedrooms or living rooms, bay windows create a cosy personal corner. They are a combination of three or more windows assembled together that extend outside the house, thus forming a bay shape and increasing the indoor space.

Glass to Glass

Glass to glass windows consist of glass panes that are seamlessly joined together, thereby eliminating the usage of mullions. They are stylish and complement contemporary interior designs to provide exceptional panoramic views from every angle, without any obstruction.

Casement Windows

Casement windows are ideal for spaces with excellent exterior views. They are equipped with a unique double sealing mechanism that makes them air-tight and keeps out the noise, dust, and pollution. Casement windows are available in an array of choices (like top hung, side hung, etc.)

Fixed Windows

For the spaces in your house that require natural lighting, the stationary, non-operative fixed window design is the ideal solution. It keeps out heat, dust, and noise and offers an unobstructed view for a greater aesthetic appeal.

Tilt & Turn Windows

The tilt & turn windows are one of the most versatile windows available in the market. These windows are multifunctional. They tilt open at the top for controlled ventilation (when required) and swing open like a door for greater ventilation.

Sliding doors & windows

Slider doors and windows consist of two or more sashes that open horizontally. These windows are placed along a track and fitted to rollers that enable smooth and swift movement. The sashes stay within the frame instead of opening outwards or inwards, sliding windows offer optimum space utilisation.

Advantages of uPVC Windows

Weather Resistant

Weathering is a common problem amongst most materials used on the exterior of a property. uPVC windows and doors do not react with water and air.

Low Maintenance

uPVC is a low maintenance material, unlike natural materials which require annual sanding, varnishing and repainting.

Eco-Friendly

The average life span of uPVC windows can range between 40-80 years and are made from mostly recyclable materials to sustain minimal long-term impact on the environment.

Sound Proof

The uPVC material works in combination with the double glazed window panels to help decrease the amount of noise that can pass into your home.
